

Prof. Dr. Maher Al Masri

PhD, MBA, DDS, MSc

- Dean of College of Medicine and Dentistry, Birmingham, UK
- After completing a degree in Dental Surgery from Damascus University in 1995, Maher pursued a career in Oral Surgery at the Royal London Hospitals in London until 2003.
- He had an intensive year-long Implant Dentistry training at the Katharinen-Hospital in Stuttgart, Germany as an international scholar.
- He graduated with a Masters and Doctorate Degree from Barts and the London School of Medicine and Dentistry wherein he researched Tissue Regeneration and Engineering.
- He developed an interest in surgical education and started a pioneering cadaveric model for training dentists in a safe and effective manner.
- In 2013, Maher founded and led BPP University's Faculty of Dentistry, which became one of the largest postgraduate dentistry departments in the UK, and played a significant role in reforming dental private higher education.
- In parallel, he earned his MBA in Higher Education Management from University College London